

Sooty Owls

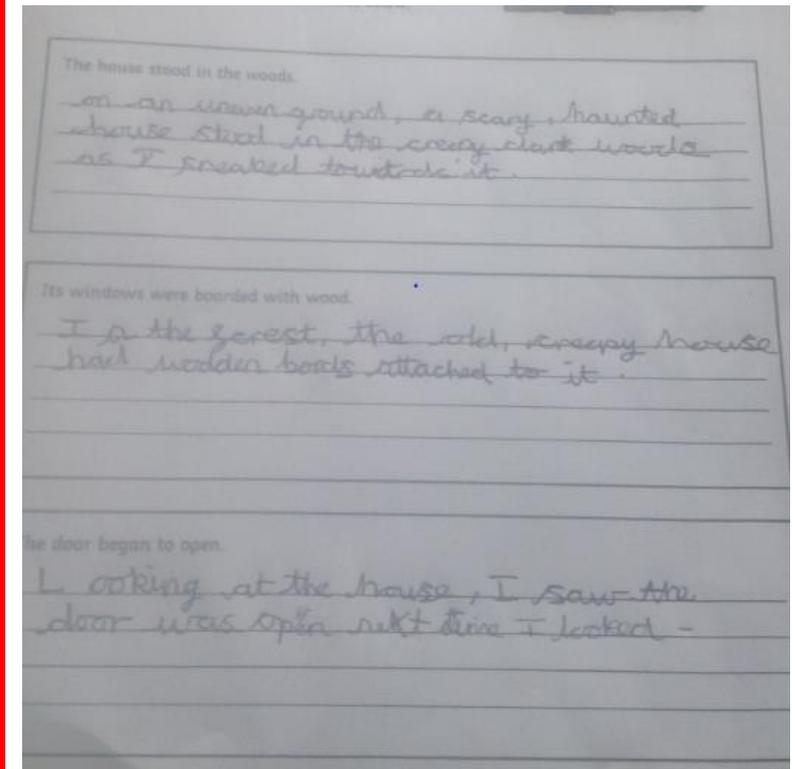

In Science, the children created an illustration to show the properties of the States of Matter and what states of change take place between them.

As part of their jigsaw work, the children had to design a funny character.

In English, this pupil improved some basic sentences using a range of techniques we have been working on.

After doing lots of work on sentence structure this week, the children were asked to edit and improve their diaries. Here are some examples of the children's improved diaries.

Dear Diary

Today has been the worst day ever because a horrible nurse stopped me from seeing my grandad and I've lost my bag.

The day began when I went to visit my grandad because I needed to tell him about the interesting jar. Outside of my grandad's room, a mean nurse didn't let me in because it wasn't visiting hours. Feeling sad, I went back down the stairs and into the busy street. After exploring London, I decided I had to do some digging so I went to go to the British museum so I could find something useful.

When I got there I secretly went up stairs into the Egypt room hoping that no one would spot my uniform. There were so much interesting stuff but there was no sign of the facts of the jar anywhere. In the corner of the room, there were two children who said come here so I went over there and the girl said you have the same uniform as me. She said I am tulip and this is oz he knew a lot about Egypt. Tulip was nice like oz but he was shy and quiet. They were both kind.

Dear Diary,

Today has been an upsetting day because I lost my bag which had my grandad's jar in.

My day started when I wasn't allowed to visit my grandad as the mean, sour faced nurse wouldn't let me in because it was not visiting hours. With my frustration bubbling, I decided to leave before I got into more trouble. Instead of doing what I should have done which was going to school I went to the museum to do some digging of my own to find out more about my grandad's jar.

When I got to the museum I rushed up the stairs to the Egyptian room and made sure that nobody saw me. In the corner of the room, I saw two people and one of them was from my school. Much to my surprise, she was not hiding her uniform but wearing it for all to see. After we got chatting I found out that they were friendly. Their names are Tulip and Oz. At first Oz was shy but he knew a lot about Egypt. I've never seen Tulip at school before but I hoped we could be friends. I saw that there was hieroglyphics on the jar that Oz was drawing. He began to tell me things about Egypt.

After we enjoyed ourselves, a glamorous woman emerged from the entrance. At first glance, I thought it was a lady from the school office but it was Oz and Tulip's Mother. As they left, my eyes filled with tears. Because I had empty pockets without any money, I decided to begin my journey back to the hospital to visit grandad.

As I went to retrieve my bag from where I had left it, my heart pumped out of me as I noticed it wasn't there. Circling the room I searched for my bag until I found it between the closed door and the wall. When I lifted the flap I saw the name Tulip Mendoza.

Tomorrow I will get my bag back from Tulip and hope she doesn't see the jar.
