

Spotted Owl Wall of Fame

Here is a selection of some brilliant work produced by Spotted Owl class this week. Keep up the amazing work everyone!

Dear diary,

Today has been the most interesting day of my life, sitting on my bed wondering if I should continue hiding this eye-catching jar away from mum and dad. I was eager to see grandad and to speak to him about the amazing jar that I had found.

I snuck into the hospital but the evil nurse pushed me away from the ward. Running off quickly, I knew she had caught a glimpse of my uniform. Walking around London, my ears picked up the local newsboy reading today's news line about Howard Carter, so I ran to the museum.

After arriving at the museum, feeling scared because mum and dad have no idea what I have done, I questioned myself if I should go back to school. I tightened my bag and walked up five flights of tiring stairs still thinking about grandad's precious jar that had been delivered. Looking up, I started to see my favourite Egyptian models. I thought the room would be completely empty but in surprise, I saw two children. I was shy at first but when I talked to them I felt better, they told me their names were Oz and Tulip.

A lady ran into the room, I did not say anything other than "Wow she looks posh!" My mom wouldn't been seen dead wearing those posh clothes. I realised it was Tulips and Oz's mum! Soon later, Oz and Tulip had to go. As soon as they rushed out of the room it was completely empty. I looked and my bag had gone. I finally found it but I realised it was Tulips bag!! At least I had an excuse to see them again! I can't believe I lost the jar! Whatever would grandad say to this?

I began to worry, because what would mum and dad and most of all grandad say? Would mum and dad punish me for a whole year? Should I skip school for this again?

Whatever will happen next?

Why did people settle near the river Nile in Ancient Egypt?

The River Nile is one of the main water supply in Egypt and people don't like it for water because every year the River Nile floods this helps because it leaves behind silt that fertilizes the soil to make it better for growing things like cucumbers, melons and pineapples.

In times along the Nile people had to use boats because animals and people couldn't walk in sand the Nile because of the dangerous animals.
